

Claims

United States Patent and Trademark Office

Application No. 10/726,843

Filed 12/04/2003

First Named Applicant Fredrick David Haase

Confirmation No. 5560

The Circle Chain Contract is a unique way of trading goods and services between three or more parties without the use of an intermediate asset such as cash, gold or barter credit.

The chaining of packages by making offers of one package for another results in an increase of possibilities that any given participant is offered an acceptable package. This chaining of packages by contract to take advantage of the exponential increase in the possibility of an acceptable package is the basic foundation of the invention.

The protections provided by a patent are needed to develop the product and educate the market.

The widespread use of this concept will make industry more efficient.